

Signcraft Acquires Commercial Signs

May 1, 2025

Signcraft comes full circle by taking over father's old workplace

KELOWNA, B.C. - Signcraft is excited to announce the procurement of one of the Okanagan's oldest sign companies, Commercial Signs.

Signcraft owners Troy Scott and Steve Ross are excited to expand their business and support the former clientele of Commercial Signs.

"My father actually worked for Commercial Signs in the early days, so this acquisition is bringing history full circle," Scott says.

Owner of Commercial Signs Morgan Hewitt knew it was time to pass on the business.

“I have suffered some health setbacks recently and it was important that my clients get taken care of,” Morgan says. “I know without a doubt, Signcraft will be able to do that.”

The sale of the business closed on April 14 and includes client portfolios, intellectual property, technology, and website domains.

“Our main priority was seeing this happen quickly so Morgan can work on himself and just get better,” says Scott. “The stress of not having to deal with timelines should hopefully speed up his recovery.”

Signcraft looks forward to providing Commercial Sign clients with top notch service in interior signage, vehicle graphics, brochures, newsletters and booklets.

About Signcraft

T Scott Signcraft is a locally owned and operated full-service sign and graphic design shop that began operating in 1982. Founders Jim Scott and Dave Thomas created a strong, community oriented business based on exceptional craftsmanship and service. Jim’s son Troy Scott and his brother-in-law Steve Ross continue to manage the business and uphold its community values. Signcraft has completed work for the City of Kelowna, Kelowna International Airport, and a wide variety of businesses in town. The business’ most well-known job in its history is the 40ft Fred Flintstone for the old Flintstone’s theme park in Kelowna’s north end.

Commercial Signs 45+ years of success

Specializing in illuminated signs since 1976, Commercial Signs saw 48 successful years in the Okanagan. The business has created thousands of illuminated signs for businesses up and down the valley. Morgan began working for Commercial Signs in 2010 before taking over the business in 2016.
